A proper consideration of the value of time will inspire the habit of punctuality. Punctuality is the politeness of kings, the duty of gentlemen, and necessity of men of business. Nothing begets confidence in a man sooner than the practice of this virtue, and nothing shakes confidence sooner than the want of it.

He who holds to his appointment, and does not keep you waiting for him, shows that he has regard for your time as well as his own.

Thus punctuality is one of the ways in which we show our personal respect for those whom we are called upon to meet in the business of life. It is also conscientiousness in a manner, for an appointment, is a contract, and he who does not keep it is guilty of breaking faith as well as of dishonestly wasting other people's time.

We naturally come to the conclusion that the person who is careless about time will be careless about business, and he is not to be trusted with the transaction of matters of importance. When Washington's Secretary excused himself for attending the office late and laid the blame on his watch, his master quietly said, "Then you must have another watch, or I another secretary."

Questions:

1. What will a proper consideration of the value of time inspire?
2. What is punctuality?
3. Who has regard for your time as well as his own?
4. Which person is not to be trusted with the transaction of matters of importance?
5. What did Washington tell his Secretary? Why?
