A mixed pattern of trading with an easy inclination was noticed on the stock exchange today. Opening on a lower note, prices of select scripts tended to drift to tired bull unloading coupled with profit-taking at higher levels and lack of follow up support. The sentiment was adversely affected by the reports of institutional investors' offerings on selective basis. The advice from up-country stock markets was discouraging and some leading operators were avoiding new commitment in view of the forthcoming elections.

A few shares, however, moved up modestly on fresh short-covering and investment support at lower levels. RIL was in limelight in sustained demand, while Dmart, Adani and Coal India were among the firm scripts.
